

KUF EPK

KUF create emotion-laden dialogues across layers of time and dimensions of sound. Voices recorded in private and in the past are chopped up and brought out center-stage to sing with beats hammered out right here and now. Glowing synths push forward. Basslines rise to grab the melodic role of a track while a vowel is truncated and locked into a grid to drive the rhythm. Voices move within the time frame of a sample, performed by hands pushing keys, guided by the ear, immersed in a trio session's deep flow... A vortex of quirky hands, responsive ears and glowing circuits.

Laurent Garnier (FR): Being listening to a lot of new albums today— this is definitely THE ONE for me - Absolutely FANTASTIC . Whaouuuu #kuf #macrorecordings

Intro (D): In fusion with Havekost's drumming, Tom Schneider and Valentin Link create a coherent signature sound, that will be hard to immitate, remarkably notching up their performance from the first record GOLD. Keep a close eye on this trio!

Taz (D): After hearing this album, you will know: These guys are good and they're creating a unique and twisted sound.

Universe LP 2018 (macro)

Hardwax (DE): West London broken-beats vibes reminiscent Jazz House hybrids

Flux Music (UK): Princess - a reminder of just how good live electronic music can be

Kiss FM (Ukraine): Loving 'Gold' - really nice work!

Groove (DE): The musician's interplay on GOLD is creating an openness and looseness, you can rarely experience in electronic context.

Gold LP 2016 (macro)

HHV Mag (DE): It's those tense, but further relaxed moments, that make GOLD such a beautiful album.

Bleep (UK): A mish-mash of styles from the unique Berlin band – from hip hop to funk to D'n'B – but all with a strong jazzy backbone and heavily electronic-sounding palette.

Radio France (FR): It's like spring coming early!

Textura (CDA): A raw attack that oozes spontaneity and unpredictability.
